LSE – Columbia Annual Research Seminar in International and World History

411 Fayerweather Hall 1180 Amsterdam Avenue New York, NY, 10025 Friday, April 20, 2018

Territory and Resources in International History

Territory and the global distribution of resources are constitutive of international relations. Power and interests shape the configuration of space and the value and meaning of resources. This year the annual LSE-Columbia joint research seminar will explore this circular relationship of space, resources and power across history.

PROGRAM (tentative)

Welcome and Breakfast, 8:30-9:00 AM

Session One, 9:00-11:00 AM

Paul Kreitman, CU Sovereignty and Spectacle, Commodities and Conflict: Island

Disputes in the South China Sea, 1918-1939

Corina Mavrodin, LSE Seeking de-Satellization through the Periphery: Romania's Petro-

Diplomacy towards the Non-Aligned

Robert Corban, CU Bitter Harvest: The Wheat Trade and the War Economy in the

Axis Moment, 1929-1939

Seung Mo Kang, LSE The Territorial Questions in Post-War East Asia: Kurile Islands,

Okinawa and Taiwan

Coffee/Tea, 11:00-11:15 AM

Session Two, 11:15 AM-1:15 PM

Megan Black, LSE The Closing of the Interior: Territory, Resources, and the

Durability of the US Settler Governance

Brooks Tucker Swett,

CU

Administering "an Enlarged and Exaggerated Ireland":

Congressional Debate over Land Policy in the American South, 1862-1867

Jeppe Mulich, LSE Colonial Borderlands and Inter-Imperial Geographies in the Nineteenth Century Atlantic

Sam Coggeshall, CU "What they should do is to preserve order at any cost leaving economic questions to be settled between masters and men": British Consular Representatives and Overlapping Imperialisms

in "Colonial" Poland, 1904-1908

Lunch, 1:15-2:15 PM

Session Three, 2:15-4:15 PM

Paul Stock, LSE What is Spatial History?

Marina Pérez de Acros.

LSE

Keeping Spain out of the Second World War: The use of soft power at the British Council in Madrid, 1940-1941

Bastiaan Bouwman, LSE The rights of states and the rights of individuals: the World

Council of Churches, human rights, and the New International

Economic Order

Noelle Turtur, CU Settling Ethiopia: Between Fascist Colonialism and Western

Neocolonialism, 1935-1950

Coffee/Tea, 4:15-4:30 PM

Session Four, 4:30-6 PM

Final Remarks with Adam Tooze, Megan Black, and Paul Stock