LEADING THINKING

Hamilton Place Strategies (HPS) is an analytical public affairs consulting firm headquartered in Washington, DC. We integrate substantive analysis with communications and believe a deep understanding of business and economics leads to more effective public engagement and better outcomes for our clients. Our approach combines analytical rigor, topical expertise, and creative thinking to improve understanding of the issues facing our clients.

At HPS, we work on some of the top debates and biggest developments in business, economics and public policy. We offer extensive training programs, a highly collaborative environment, and expect people to stretch themselves and challenge conventional thinking. The work is challenging, but we thrive on learning from each other and serving as trusted partners for our clients. If this sounds like your kind of place, we'd love to hear from you.
