Bodies and Borders: Inclusion, Exclusion, and Excision in East Asia

Presented by the EALC Graduate Student Research Colloquium

East Asian Languages and Civilizations Graduate Conference
April 21-22, 2018 at the University of Pennsylvania

This two-day conference provides a forum for graduate students from regional institutions to examine how the physical, legal, scientific, religious, and sociopolitical bodies and boundaries of East Asia (China, Japan, Korea, and Mongolia) have been defined in the past and explore how they are being reimagined in the present.

Please submit for review an abstract of no longer than 250 words and a short biography of 100 words or less by February 1st, 2018.

Application materials may be sent to:
