

Folger Institute Commons
Italian Paleography and Archival Studies Course
Florence, Italy

The Medici Archive Project, based in Florence, offers courses in Italian paleography with an introduction to archival studies. Information can be found at the URL below. I highly recommend them for graduate students and any researchers interested in improving their ability to read documents and to receive an introduction to Italian archives from wonderful mentors. These courses occur conveniently during the January break. The Project can recommend affordable housing.

For more information, visit:

<http://www.medicini.org/onsite-archival-studies-seminar/>

Sincerely,
Sheila ffolliott, FSA

Professor Emerita of Art History, George Mason University
President, The American Friends of
Attingham <http://www.americanfriendsofattingham.org>
Trustee, The Medici Archive Project <http://www.medicini.org>