

INTERNSHIP OFFER – EMERGING MARKETS DEBT TEAM

BARINGS

Barings' dedicated emerging markets team manages over $6 billion in assets across corporates, sovereign, local debt and blended strategies. An integrated team of 19 seasoned portfolio managers, analysts and traders analyses the sovereign debt of over 75 countries and the corporate debt of over 600 companies.

INTERNSHIP TOPIC

The Emerging Markets sovereign team is looking for a graduate intern for the summer of 2018 to be based in Boston or London to work on the following topic: Frontier Countries Macroeconomic and Institutional Analysis. The main objective of the summer internship is to work on a group of frontier countries' creditworthiness by:

- building country spreadsheet summarizing key macroeconomic, institutional and financial indicators
- writing economic and political analysis on countries' current situation and outlook

Another sub-project of the internship would be to do a focused analysis on Balance of Payment flows and Errors and Omissions for a group of Emerging Markets countries.

SKILLS

The candidate should have a strong knowledge of macroeconomics (national accounting, balance of payment analysis, monetary policy, etc.). Additional background in political science and/ or internal relations would be helpful.

PROCESS

Only graduate applicants will be considered. Deadline for application is Friday 2 March 2018.

Applicants should send their resumes (and any relevant research publication) with Subject "Application to Barings EMD internship COUNTRY ANALYSIS" to:
